

Bow Island Review

For the Districts of Seven Persons, Whitla, Winnifred, Bow Island, Burdett, Grassy Lake, Foremost and Maleb.

VOL 10 NO. 4

BOW ISLAND, ALBERTA,

FRIDAY JANUARY 23, 1920.

SUBSCRIPTION 1.50 A YEAR

F-R-E-E

Each one of you has the Free Right to come to This Store and buy your goods and by so doing you get the best Goods at the Lowest Prices

Leonard Ferne, - Clothier
BOW ISLAND

THE BOW ISLAND CASH MEAT MARKET

Hogs and Hides Bought

We have a Full Line of the Choicest Meats always on hand also Fresh Sausages, Weenies and Bologna.

C.E JOHNSON PROPRIETOR

A. E. BROWNING

Baker and Confectioner

MAIN STREET — BOW ISLAND.

Fresh Bread Daily.

Neilson's Chocolates.

Pipes and Tobacco.

Agent for

"FIVE ROSES FLOUR"

George Lomas, Agent for OUR BREAD at Burdett

BOW ISLAND

From our own Correspondent

O. Nordan at the beginning of the year had to go to Mayo Bros. Rochester for an operation, supposed to be tumours of the stomach, the operation will be performed soon, which has been purposely delayed to allow Mr. Nordan to get into better shape.

Mr. W. Dittner who is working at Calthines, B.O. met with an accident last Tuesday morning, caused by being struck with a log, necessitating a rest for a few days, he however expects to return to work next Monday

Mr. W. A. Bateman received a telegram to say that his mother died last Saturday, the old lady was 91 years of age

The Womens Institute held their monthly meeting last Saturday in the rest room. There were 18 members present and 12 new members joined.

Any cases of sickness or destitution will be assisted if notice is sent to the Womens Institute

Mr. Chris. Long of Purple Springs returned home last Wednesday, after spending a week visiting with friends at Bow Island

Mr. W. A. Bateman has resigned the office of Trustee from the Bow Island School Board to take effect at once

Herb Wathen has returned from Calgary, after attending his mothers funeral which took place on January 10th. Herb is accompanied by his brother J.W. Wathen, who will spend a few days visiting at his brother's

Fatal Fire

On Sunday January 18th, a fatal fire broke out in Calgary and three persons were burnt to death. When the Grand Central and Empire Hotels were burnt down, with a property loss of over $300,000.

The above only shows, that we should insure against Loss by Fire by seeing R.H. Robertson Fire Insurance Agent Bow Island

United Church

The United Sunday School meets every Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m. The topic for Jan. 25th, "Peter stands up for Truth and Honesty"

Act 5: 1-11, Golden Text, Prov. 12: 22 A sermonette by Rev. V.M. Gilbert immediately following the lesson period.

Everybody welcome
J. Elmer Still, Supt.

Bow Island Town Council Meeting

Bow Island January 5th, 1920

The first meeting of the Council for the year 1920 was held in the Council Chamber on Monday the 5th, day of January 1920 at 2 o'clock p.m.

Members present Mayor Reid Commissioners Bratton, Allen and Holson. Secretary Treasurer Bateman.

Secretary Treasurer advised that the new members of the council had tried their oath of office.

Minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

Matter of appointing Deputy Mayor That J.M. Bratton be appointed Deputy Mayor for the ensuing three months. Carried

A draft of the several committees for the year 1920 was submitted by Mayor Reid

That the Committees as outlined and submitted by Mayor Reid be adopted. Carried

Committees 1920

GAS SYSTEM

Swennumson, Hurd and Bratton. PUBLIC WORKS and PROPERTY

Bratton, Allen and Holso. FIRE, WATER and LIGHT

Holso, Swennumson and Holson. LICENSE and POLICE

Hurd, Holson and Bratton. HEALTH, RELIEF, CEMETERY and PARK

Allen, Holso and Hurd. ASSESSMENT

Holson, Allen and Swennumson. FINANCE

A quorum of the Council the Mayor as Chairman. That we adjourn. Carried U.

Card Party and Dance

Will be held on Friday the 30th. January in the I.O.O.F. Hall under the auspices of the Golden Link, Rebekah Lodge No 17 Admission 50 cents. Refreshments Served

Masquerade Dance

A Masquerade and St. Valentine's Dance will be held on February 13th. under the auspices of Golden Link, Rebekah Lodge No 17. I.O.O.F. Hall

Admission 50 cents

Refreshments Served

Prices of Paper, Ink, Type and Express Rates

Have all Advanced, Making a Total of over 100 per cent Increase, in this last year alone, to the Cost of producing this Paper.

Your Subscription is it Due?

We Will be Glad to Receive It.

"Viking" Separator

We have a Good Supply of Coal Heaters and Ranges. Gas Heaters & Gas Ranges

Ostrum's Hardware Store

Main Street

Bow Island

See Us For ALUMINUM WARE

We Have a Large Variety of First-Class Cook Stoves and Ranges Reliable Heaters General Hardware Cutlery of the Best Makes.

SWENNUMSON & CO.

MAIN STREET

BOW ISLAND

We have the remedies to keep your animals healthy

It pays to PREVENT disease to your stock and Poultry. Take care of your animals and fowls in TIME. Eggs are 75c. per dozen. Good Poultry tonic makes the hens produce.

The Bow Island Drug and Stationery Co. Ltd.

All Advertisements, or Changes of Advertisements, Notices, or Reading Matter should be in the Review Office by Monday or at the latest Tuesday morning to appear the same week, as the Review is printed every Thursday

THE BADGE of CRUELTY

In the Canadian war trophies exhibit a very head-dress which belonged to Prince Joachim, the Kaiser's youngest son. This head-dress is topped with a huge bunch of "algrette" plumes.

What could be more suitable for a German prince's hat than this badge of cruelty? What woman in Canada wishes to follow his style and flaunt similar plumes before the eyes of many who know the story of the egret?

In case the reader has never heard the reason for calling an egret plume the badge of cruelty, a little of the world story is told. Some of the beautiful species of birds on this continent have been reduced to a pitiful remnant to provide these plumes.

The species which have suffered most in North America to provide the "algrette" plumes of commerce have been the Egret (Hodias egretta) and the Snowy Egret (Hodias candidissima) which is also called the Silver Heron. Both species are believed to wander northward after the breeding season and have been recorded from several of the Provinces of Canada in the late summer.

These beautiful travellers might be more numerous and of more accidental occurrence if the north if these two species had not disappeared as breeding birds in the middle United States.

If we suppose that the birds, which occur occasionally in Canada, come North from the most northern rockeries, we are less likely to see these birds here now than the most Northern colonies are in North Carolina than when the northern rockeries were in New Jersey or Wisconsin.

They now breed from North Carolina southward to Chili and Argentina. Although they are protected in North America by treaty between Canada and United States, they will be slaughtered elsewhere in their range as long as their plumes are in demand on the feather market, and this is created by the use of their plumes for military purposes.

The plume-hunter visits the nesting grounds of the Snowy Heron, or of the Egret, as the birds grow these plumes only during the nesting season, and kills the old birds as they return to feed the young birds in the nest. The young are left to starve and the plume hunter, after cutting the "osprey" or "algrette" plumes from the parent bird, leaves the helpless body to rot in the swamp where it made its home, while he pursues his bloody course.

Nor has the plume hunter stopped at bird slaughter. The Audubon Society appointed a warden to guard a colony of Egrets at Chubb's Ranch, where the lake was located in Southern Florida. His name was Guy Bradley and he lived on a coral key with his wife and two babies. The plume hunters shot him dead and then killed all the adult birds in the rookery to obtain snow-white plumes—perhaps the identical ones that were used to ornament the winter head-dress of the Kaiser's son and also the fashionable hats of many women in this country.

Remember the cruel side of the "algrette" whenever you see the shiny feathers, because it is the slaughter of the old birds and the starving young ones and remember the murder of the warden who was faithfully guarding the birds in his care, and the very sight of a spray of "algrette" feathers will fill you with loathing.

Although much has been said and very much written about this subject of the egret, it is doubtful whether the public conscience is yet awakened to the wrong and cruelty which has been connected with this traffic. The following incident is mentioned to emphasize this point.

At a motion picture theatre was shown recently a series of very beautiful views of the snowy herons and egrets at home. Creatures of marvellous grace, they were, and one could believe that people, who they breed their plumes, and thereby pay for their destruction, do not know of the devastation they cause in the egret rookeries. It is certain that anyone who saw these birds, as realistically pictured in their native haunts, was lost in admiration of them.

The very next film shown on the screen, portrayed an actress dancing for an enchanted audience. It was surely a strange coincidence that in her costume was fastened a spray of algrette plumes of truly barbaric proportions.

How many watching those two pictures knew the story of the slaughter of the beautiful and innocent birds to provide that head-dress.

Fortunately, it is now contrary to the law to import the plumage of these birds into Canada, Canada and United States have agreed by treaty to protect many beautiful and useful forms of bird life and the treaty is being adequately enforced in both countries. All the herons, which family the egret belongs, are protected throughout the year in both countries. Severe penalties are provided for buying, selling, or having in possession any portion of their birds.

It is hoped that in this instance civilization will triumph over barbarism and that the badge of cruelty will disappear from our midst.

A Mans Prayer

Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, and 16 ounces one pound and 100 cents $1

Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, with out any other any sorrow and unburdened by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain. Grant, I beseech thee, that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in doing so not nick at the grass where it does not belong.

Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own.

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and to lose myself in their play.

And then when comes the small of flowers and the tread of soft steps and the crunching of the heaver's wheels in the gravel out in front my place, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simpler: "Here Lies a Man."

Burdett Council Meeting

A Council Meeting was held in the Council Chambers at Burdett on January 20th, at 8 p.m.

Councillors present were, A. Hamilton, Geo. Lomas, and R. H. Ostrum.

The meeting was called for the purpose of electing one of the councillors as Reeve for the year 1920.

The meeting was called to order by the Reeve and minutes of the previous meeting read. A. Hamilton moved that R. H. Ostrum occupy the Reeve's chair for the present year, this was seconded by Geo. Lomas.

Mr. Ostrum absolutely refused the honor conferred on him and moved that Mr. Hamilton be appointed the Reeve for the ensuing year.

Mr. Lomas seconded this, next on the program was the appointment of a Secretary. Thereafter this brought to some debate, finally all the council decided unanimously to offer the post of Sec. Treas. to Mr. G. H. Johnston, who has held that position for the past two years. Mr. Johnston accepted this post.

Thus completing the council for the year, with one of oldest and reliable in the province, also having three of Burdett's leading business men with the support of the ratepayers of the village, the council has agreed to join hands with the business community to make Burdett one of the cleanest, smartest and most attractive business villages on the C.P.R. between Lethbridge and Medicine Hat.

Don't forget the Card Party at the St. Michael's Hall on Tuesday January 27th. and February 10th.

Paper Co. may yet yield to Gov't Demands

PORT FRANCES, Ont. Jan. 16th. (Canadian Press) No seizure was made today of Canadian newspaper at the mill of the Port Francis Pulp and Paper Company, as there were some indications that the company might yield and comply with the demands of the paper controller giving the western papers their full supply of newsprint.

If the present negotiations do not lead to a settlement, it is expected that the seizure of the paper by the sheriff will at once take place. Inspector Meade, of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, from Winnipeg is now on hand with a number of local members of the forces, and they will assist the sheriff if necessary.

Seizure Expected

In connection with the resistance offered to Sheriff Baker when he went to make the seizure last Monday a summons has been issued against Paul Hass, superintendent of the mill, who refused to let the sheriff enter. He is to appear in court on Monday on a charge under the criminal code of obstructing a sheriff in the performance of his duty.

Winnipeg gets news by bulletins only

Citizens deprived of newspapers owing to newspaper situation

Winnipeg, Man., (Canadian Press.) Deprived of their newspapers as a result of the newspaper shortage, Winnipeg citizens crowded about bulletin boards today.

Deprived of their newspapers as a result of the newspaper shortage, Winnipeg citizens crowded about bulletin boards today.

This sheet contains a summary of outstanding world's news, limited to about 125 words and it will be issued twice daily morning and evening. In conspicuous places at the post office and news stands.

This sheet contains a summary of outstanding world's news, limited to about 125 words and it will be issued twice daily morning and evening. In conspicuous places at the post office and news stands.

Paper fight is still on

Fort Francis Co. continues to oppose mandate of the controller

Calgary, Jan. Speaking editorially of the Winnipeg newspaper situation, the Herald says:

"If there is question as to the constitutionality of the law under which the government commission is acting, there are ways by which the facts may be determined without disrupting the business of Western Canada. The Fort Francis Company is pursuing a high-handed course such a course, in fact, cannot be tolerated by the government a moment longer than the time necessary to bring it to a full stop. Capital has no more license than any other class to break or defy law in this country, and the government must make this clear at once. Prompt arrest of head officials of the paper company on contempt charges, coupled with temporary occupancy of the mill property by officers of the law, would be justifiable under the circumstances."

"One Good Turn Deserves Another," the Bow Island Review spends its money with you, so you oughtness to your Printing Orders to the Bow Island Review.

All changes of Advertisements must be in the "Review office" Tuesday morning to appear the same week.

Piano Tuning

Organ and Piano Tuning, also repairing. Terms reasonable. Work guaranteed satisfactory. Theo. Danilow, Box 10, Bow Island, Alta.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF FORTY MILE No. 64 NOTICE

In the matter of the Court of Confirmation of the Tax Enforcement Return of the Municipal District of Forty Mile No. 64.

Take notice that His Honour Judge Greene, Judge of the District Court of the District of Medicine Hat, will at the Sittings of the Court, to be held at Medicine Hat Alberta, on Monday the 8th day of March A. D. 1920, confirm the Tax Enforcement Return of the Municipal District of Forty Mile No. 64.

Dated at Calgary, Alberta this 6th day of January A. D. 1920.

J. M. Gibbons,
Secretary-Treasurer
Municipal District of Forty Mile No. 64.

Give your Orders for Counter Check Books to the Bow Island Review

If you need a loan on your farm, see George Lomas of Burdett.

The Bow Island Review helps to Boost your Business, so it is only fair to Boost the Bow Island Review.

Bow Island Review

CHAS. AVERY, PROP.

Publishing Office, Bow Island, Alta. (Ten Reporters and Correspondents take Orders for Printing work of every District not yet represented, in your area by that very District. No harm to write in and see, if this interests you write now.)

Also permanent Representatives and Agents wanted in every District to take Orders for Printing work of every District not yet represented, in your area by that very District. No harm to write in and see, if this interests you write now.)

Advertising Rates. Local notices, 12c. per line first insertion, 8c. per line each subsequent insertion.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths will be charged for at the rate of 25c. per insertion.

Announcements of entertainments, etc., conducted by churches, societies, etc., where admission is charged, at half price. Classified ads., such as "Wanted," "For Sale," etc., the first insertion and $1.00 for three insertions. Cards of thanks $1.00. Locals among reading matter, 10c. per line first insertion, 5c. per line each following insertion.

All Advertisements and Subscriptions must be paid in advance.

STRAYED

Eight head of work horses seven head branded L J on left thigh. One branded half circle over heart on left thigh.

Reward will be given for information leading to recovery.

notify Earl Leggett Elkwater

TEAMING.

For General Draying and Cartage see John Martin. Bratton's Livery Barn. Bow Island

MATERNITY

Mrs. W. H. Allen of Bow Island has opened a Resident Hospital Patients taken in.

Butter Wrappers with your own name printed on can be had at the Bow Island Review

WANTED

A girl learner for Printing Office, experience unnecessary. Apply Review. Bow Island

Send your Printing Orders to the Bow Island Review and help to keep up your Home Town

Winnifred

From our own Correspondent

The many friends of Mrs. Tom Godfrey will be pleased to learn that she has fully recovered from her siege of blood poisoning in her hand.

P. J. De Maes of Medicine Hat spent a couple of days looking after his piano, which he had rented, after the parties appear to have left town.

The many friends of Bryon McDonald who is in hospital in Medicine Hat, will be pleased to learn of his continual recovery since his operation.

Mrs. I. G. Freeman and Mrs. Will Campbell were the chosen delegates to represent the Winnifred U.F.W.A. Auxiliary held in Calgary this week.

The Pool Hall Inspector visited Winnifred Monday and found everything satisfactory.

Another enjoyable evening was spent among the bachelors Monday evening a surprise party was given Tony Craig in honor of his brother Art, who is visiting him, the evening was spent in cards and games and a dainty lunch was served.

The Good Cheer School held another popular dance last Friday evening.

The weather man turned things back again and we certainly are having snappy cold weather and an abundance of snow.

GRASSY LAKE

From our own correspondent

Young Ed. Forten is in the Gaule Hospital undergoing an operation for appendicitis we all hope to see him home soon.

The Eld restaurant has closed, the Misses Helen and Julia expect to go to Calgary soon.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Parkenson last Monday a son, Jack says he is calling him dad already.

The Misses Rose and Emma Knibb are visiting their mother on the farm South of town.

Mr. Thos. Martin was a visitor in town on Saturday.

Mr. Ed. Johnson has gone North on a business trip.

Where are the square boxes that should have arrived.

Mr. John Leahy went to Lethbridge on business Saturday.

Mr. David Langhlin sold his place to his step son Thos. Weber.

Mr. L. Franks butcher of Grassy Lake was charged with disorderly conduct on the street, he appeared before P.H. Burnell P.M. at Grassy Lake last Tuesday 5 p.m. After hearing evidence he was found guilty and fined $10.00 and cost.

James Frank was further charged at Grassy Lake with threatening Joe Kaller. After hearing evidence he was bound over in the sum of $200.00 him self, $100.00 and two Sureties of Fifty Dollars each or one week imprisonment if he fails to secure the sureties. He is given three days to get it.

A dance was given by Fipps Bros. at the Morning Star School House 5 miles East of town last Friday night. The dance attracted a large crowd from different points, bachelors beware as it is leap year.

Grassy Lake

From our own correspondent

It is reported that Thos. Hopkins bought the Ledwick place, he expects to move there soon.

Mr. Erick Stomones of Burdett was seriously injured in the woods by a tree falling on him he is not expected to recover.

A big dance will be given at the Juno School-house Friday night Jan. 10th, always a good time there.

Have the butchers all bought their running shoes yet? If not? why not? being leap year.

35 Sailors drown in "Trevall" wreck

Weymouth, England. Thirty five members of the crew of forty-two of the British steamer Trevall were drowned when the big vessel was wrecked on Kinnear Edge Rock, near St. Albans Head, during a violent storm in the channel on Saturday.

LUMBARD & HAMILTON

Lumbard and Hamilton are prepared to take all kinds of Fire, Life, Sickness and Automobile Insurance.

United Grain Growers.

Phone No. 7. Burdett.

PROWSE & LYONS

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Etc. J. H. Lyons J. H. Prowse Bow Island every Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. Taber, Alta.

Bargain Column

IF YOU WANT TO

BUY OR SELL

anything

See this Column

Advertisements taken for Goods to be placed in this Column

FOR SALE

Automatic Knitting

Machine

Will make all your own

Hosiery, and there is a Demand for all you can make, you can

Earn big money at home,

Reasonable price

Remington Typewriter

A No 11 Visible Remington

Typewriter in good condition,

Reasonable price

Also a Calligraph Typewriter

in splendid condition,

Reasonable price

MUSIC IN THE HOME

A fine tuned Ealey Organ in good condition at a reasonable price

See it at the Review Office

A Home Phonograph for Sale,

Reasonable price

Sewing Machine Oils, and

Sewing Machine Belts for sale

Double Set of light Harness

for sale

Wanted to buy a

Glass Show Case

All the above can be seen at

The Review Office Bow Island

Call or write

If you want to Buy, Sell or exchange anything you possess, either large or small just have it put in our

"Bargain Column"

DON'T think that because your stomach can digest food you are proof against indigestion. The most important digestive work is done by the bowels, liver and kidneys. Unless these are active and work in harmony, you are in danger of self-poisoning.

BEECHAM'S

Worth a Guinea a box.

Sold everywhere in Canada. In boxes, 25c, 50c.

PILLS

help the bowels to functionate properly, and influence the liver and kidneys to act very efficiently.

Pack Your Butter In This Tub

made of Indurated Fiberglass which is most perfect for the purpose. It is strong, light, and does not absorb moisture. It is also fireproof and is perfect for shipping—no ice or other material can be used over and over again.

EDDY'S INDURATED BUTTER TUBS

Absolutely impervious to water and acids—there are no crevices or joints. It is perfect for shipping—no ice or other material can be used over and over again.

Made in Canada by E.D. EDDY CO. Limited, Montreal, Canada. Write for literature.

Snow Leopard.

The beautiful snow leopard, the greatest prize of big-game hunters in India, is rarely found below a height of 11,000 feet and is even there extremely rare. It is both wild and savage, and the natives have a superstitious fear of its white coat and deep-green eyes.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited. Since I have used your MINARD'S LINIMENT for the past 25 years and whilst I have occasionally used other liniments I can safely say I have never used any equal to yours.

It rubbed between the hands and inhaled frequently, it will never fail to cure cold in the head in 24 hours. It is also the best for colds, sprains, etc.

Yours truly, J. G. LESLIE, Darmouth.

Canada's Sales Of Export Wheat

Equality of Price for All the Farmers

To Alms.

In official circles it is estimated that about two-thirds of the exportable surplus of the Canadian wheat crop has already been contracted for and handled by the Canadian Wheat Board, while the United States market was opened to Canadian wheat on December 15. The Wheat Board will continue to handle the marketing, and the proceeds of grain sold will be pooled, so that those who have held their wheat will not have a great advantage over those who have already marketed it.

Equality of price for all the farmers is aimed at. The total amount of Canadian wheat exported up to the end of November was 48,293,313 bushels, of a total value of $110,185,265.

The principal countries and ports to which export was made are as follows: Great Britain, 33,995,360 bushels; United States, 4,688,967; France, 3,073,016; Italy, 1,119,297; Gibraltar, 1,659,484; Belgium, 1,730,374; Greece, 2,666,540; Rumania, 43,333.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

ALL KIDNEY DISEASES. DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. THE PROPER

British Columbia Salmon Pack

Seventy-Five Per Cent. Has Been Exported Principally to Great Britain

Practically all of the British Columbia salmon pack for the 1919 season consists of 1,293,156 cases and valued at more than $15,000,000, has been sold. Seventy-five per cent. has been exported, principally to Great Britain. Cases salmon in smaller and varying quantities have been shipped from this province to other points in the British Empire, and to France, Italy, Greece and several other European countries says the Vancouver Province.

No difficulty was experienced by the British Columbia canners in disposing of the red varieties, such as the sockeyes, collets and red springers and a considerable proportion of these grades were sold in Canada. The sockeye pack, comprising 360,445 cases was sold for a figure approximating $6,000,000.

While there was not the same demand for chums as for the more extensive grades, it is estimated by the canners that 59 per cent. of the chum pack has been sold. The pack totaled some 372,035 cases, and on the basis of $6.75 per case of one-pound tins, the pack was worth $2,500,000. The successful marketing of the 1919 chum is the more pleasing to the salmon packers as the 1918 chum was on the market for some time before purchasers were found.

Italy, Greece, and other countries bordering on the Mediterranean have placed orders for chums which have been filled by local canners. A fair proportion was shipped to the Orient.

More Irrigation Wanted

Farmers of Southern Alberta Are Strongly in Favor of Irrigation

An enthusiastic meeting was held at Warner, Alberta, a few days ago during the formation of an irrigation district which will embrace about 60,000 acres of rich land surrounding Warner and Milk Rivers. Farmers and business men throughout the south of Southern Alberta are strongly in favor of irrigation development. They believe that irrigation is the one thing necessary to stimulate agriculture here and to enable them to participate in the big program of reclamation which is about to be carried out. The source of water supply will be the Milk River.

LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week in the past suffered from blisters or blood poisoning, now tell us, Citizens, your ability to use a drug called Freezore, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, sore, or blister, and soon the entire corn, blister, or sore, is out with the corns.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without irritating or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of Freezore will cure a very large lot of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

A Tribute to Manhood

Prince of Wales Has A High Sense of Duty.

No visitor of any rank from any country ever will be welcome from America as the young Prince of Wales. To what is all this due? It is due to the mind of all who have studied the records of his tour, to qualities and ideals which would give distinction to the man if he were not the Prince. He has a clear sense of duty, sincerely, simply and a high sense of duty. He has brains. His speeches, which are his own, reveal a sense of duty and a very hearty common sense. His actions show a level head on attractively young and impetuous shoulders. He has, we are persuaded, done work of extreme importance for the Empire and for civilization. We may all pay him a tribute of quietest homage with a very hearty suspicion of cynicism or fear of turning his quite sane head—London Daily Express.

No Wonder, Carlo Debut: That air, is a rare old reveler, carried by Christopher Columbus, the first of the world's customers. "What! Why, revelers were not invented in Columbus' time." Carlo Debut: "I know. That's what makes this one so rare."

Successes For Western Canada

Prize, Won at the International Exhibition Held in Chicago.

At the International Exhibition held at Chicago on December 2, competitors from Western Canada again demonstrated the superiority of their grains by carrying off, among others, nine prizes and several ribbons for hard spring wheat. The successful exhibitors, in order, were as follows: J. C. Mitchell, Dahnida; J. S. Field, Regina; Seager Wheeler, Rotherham; Andrew Brothers, Wilcox; A. Talk, Semana; Robert Clark, Spitz, and J. P. Cadore, South Fork, all from Saskatchewan; E. F. Young, Oak Lake, and Samuel Larcombe, Birle, represented Manitoba.

In the Durum classes, P. Kezerk, E. F. Young, both of Oak Lake, Manitoba, won first and second, respectively.

In six-rowed barley, Seager Wheeler, Rotherham, Sask., was first, and Samuel Larcombe, Birle, Man., second. It will be remembered that Mr. J. S. Field was the winner of the sweepstakes and C.P.R. cup for hard spring wheat and first prize and sweepstakes for oats at the International Soil Product Exposition, at Kansas City, recently, while the successes of Seager Wheeler are so well known as to need no enumeration.

End Your CATARRH Today

Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc., can all be cured right at home by using Catarrhoxone you don't need to go into the doctor's office. Just breathe a healing vapor vapor direct to the lungs and air passages. The secret behind this is the great antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where the bacteria which cause the colds are killed, food secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance to get rid of the disease. Colds and throat troubles can't last long when the healing vapor in Catarrhoxone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because the irritation is removed. Use Catarrhoxone to prevent—use it to cure your winter colds, it's pleasant, safe and guaranteed in every case.

The Obsolete Obstacle. Tom: "Why won't she marry you? Is there something man in the case?" Dick: "I'm afraid there is." Tom: "Do you know who he is?" Dick: "Yes, her father."

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

The Harsh Note. The land was releasing for a concert when the conductor was nearly frightened of his boots by a terrific hiss that from the trombone players in the corner.

"What are you doing?" roared the conductor.

"I'm sorry, sir," came the reply. "I was a fly on my music. But," he added, with just a touch of pride, "I played him!"

Lots of pupils bow so hard before the light that they are unable to get in a blow during the progress of the discharging.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularity, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and at last I took in my family and three brothers a box of your famous medicine for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. I feel like a new woman. I am sure it is the best medicine for women's ailments I ever tried."—Mrs. SARAH SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order to let other women know how they may find relief as she did. Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous restorative, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special information, write at once to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is its service.

A Nervous Wreck

BY DR. D. L. GRANTNER.

How many business men feel fagged out, nervous, with a "soggy brain"—worn out completely before the day and its tremendous duties have overtaken them? Try the right way! Clean the body first. That will help your nerves, your head and your circulation. Your doctor will tell you that anything from a headache or a common cold to gripe or a nervous illness may result from allowing food to ferment in the intestines. Don't give the body a chance to absorb the poisons. Remove the toxins from the system and give the tissues of the body aid to resist disease by taking an occasional laxative such as castor oil, or a tiny pill made up of May-apple, aloin, jalap, and sold by most druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear, and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the urine is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the urate salts are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, gout, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Aurio" (anti-uric-acid), a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Aurio" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—rendering them antiseptic—consequently one is soon freed of lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.

Dairying Advancing In Saskatchewan

Fast Coming to the Front as a Dairy Producing Province

F. H. Auld, deputy minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, is authority for the statement that creamery butter products in Saskatchewan have increased during the past year from thirty to thirty-five per cent. as compared with the year 1918. The increase in 1918 over the year 1917 amounted to fifty per cent.

Saskatchewan is fast coming to the front as a dairy producing province, but even more rapid development is looked for in the future. Quality counts and anything that can be done in the way of emphasizing the need for a higher quality of butter is considered a step in the right direction.

See Shabby, Faded Garments Turn New

"Diamond Dye" Make Old Apparel Fresh and Stylish.

Don't worry about perfect results. Use "Diamond Dye," guaranteed to give a new, rich, fadeless color to any fabric, whether it be wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods,—dresses, blouses, raincoats, skirts, children's coats, feathers, draperies, coverings—everything.

The Direction Book with each package tells how to diamond dye over any color.

To match any material, have dealer show you "Diamond Dye" Color Card.

A man never realizes what a small price he is willing to bear in a roundabout way what the girl he could have married but did not, thinks of him.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diarrhoea.

Germany Shipped Guns to Mexico

Exportation of War Material Is Violation of Armistice.

Two shipments of machine guns and machine gun accessories being sent to Mexico from Germany and discovered in transit, via Holland, have been held up by the Allied military authorities, according to information reaching United States officials at Coblenz.

The exportation of war material by Germany is a violation of the armistice and peace treaty. The German government has been asked to explain the shipments and notified not to attempt any similar exportation of such arms.

The first shipment consisted of four crates of second hand machine guns, all boxed and ready for ocean transport. This shipment comprised 2,098 machine guns according to Marshall Foch, the guns arrived in Holland on November 28, the senders being the firm of Brockelman and Sent Gunn, of Cassel. The consignee was the Johan Muntz Arms and Trading Company of Amsterdam.

The communication to the Inter-Allied Armistice committee at Cologne, giving notice of these shipments, says that Marshall Foch has information showing that the shipments had been made "Across Holland, with destination Mexico."

When in doubt listen to your wife.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY. THERAPION NO. 1 THERAPION NO. 2

COOK'S COTTON ROPE COMPANED. A reliable, well-proven, and effective remedy. It is a French preparation, made in France, and is sold in bottles of 1/2, 1, 2, 4, 8, 16, 32, 64, 128, 256, 512, 1024, 2048, 4096, 8192, 16384, 32768, 65536, 131072, 262144, 524288, 1048576, 2097152, 4194304, 8388608, 16777216, 33554432, 67108864, 134217728, 268435456, 536870912, 1073741824, 2147483648, 4294967296, 8589934592, 17179869184, 34359738368, 68719476736, 137438953472, 274877906944, 549755813888, 1099511627776, 2199023255552, 4398046511104, 8796093022208, 17592186044416, 35184372088832, 70368744177664, 140737488355328, 281474976710656, 562949953421312, 1125899906842624, 2251799813685248, 4503599627370496, 9007199254740992, 18014398509481984, 36028797018963968, 72057594037927936, 144115188075855872, 288230376151711744, 576460752303423488, 1152921504606846976, 2305843009213693952, 4611686018427387904, 9223372036854775808, 18446744073709551616, 36893488147419103232, 73786976294838206464, 147573952589676412896, 295147905179352825792, 590295810358705651584, 1180591620717411303168, 2361183241434822606336, 4722366482869645212672, 9444732965739290425344, 18889465931478580850688, 37778931862957161701376, 75557863725914323402752, 151115727451828646805504, 302231454903657293611008, 604462909807314587222016, 1208925819614629174444032, 2417851639229258348888064, 4835703278458516697776128, 9671406556917033395552256, 19342813113834066791104512, 38685626227668133582209024, 77371252455336267164418048, 154742504910672534328836096, 309485009821345068657672192, 618970019642690137315344384, 1237940039285380274630688768, 2475880078570760549261377536, 4951760157141521098522755072, 9903520314283042197045510144, 19807040628566084394091020288, 39614081257132168788182040576, 79228162514264337576364081152, 158456325028528675152728162304, 316912650057057350305456324608, 633825300114114700610912649216, 1267650600228229401221825298432, 2535301200456458802443650596864, 5070602400912917604887301193728, 10141204801825835209774602387456, 20282409603651670419549204774912, 40564819207303340839098409549824, 81129638414606681678196819099648, 162259276829213363376393638199296, 324518553658426726752787276398592, 649037107316853453505574552797184, 1298074214633706907011149105594368, 2596148429267413814022298211188736, 5192296858534827628044596422377472, 1038459371706965525608919284475488, 2076918743413931051217838568950976, 4153837486827862102435677137901952, 8307674973655724204871354275803904, 16615349947311448409742708551607808, 33230699894622896819485417103215616, 66461399789245793638970834206431232, 132922799578491587277941668412862464, 265845599156983174555883336825724928, 531691198313966349111766673651449856, 106338239662793269822353334730291968, 212676479325586539644706669460583936, 425352958651173079289413338921167872, 850705917302346158578826677842335744, 1701411834604692317157653355684671488, 3402823669209384634315306711369342976, 6805647338418769268630613422738685952, 13611294676837538537261226845477371904, 27222589353675077074522453690954743808, 54445178707350154149044907381909487616, 108890357414700308298089814763818975232, 217780714829400616596179629527637950464, 435561429658801233192359259055275900928, 871122859317602466384718518110551801856, 1742245718635204932769437036221103603712, 3484491437270409865538874072442207207424, 6968982874540819731077748144884414414848, 13937965749081639462155496289768828829696, 27875931498163278924310992579537657659328, 55751862996326557848621985159075315118656, 111503725992653115697243970318150630237312, 223007451985306231394487940636301260474624, 446014903970612462788975881272602520949248, 892029807941224925577951762545205041898896, 1784059615882449851155903525090410083797792, 3568119231764899702311807050180820167595584, 7136238463529799404623614100361640335191168, 14272476927059598809247228200723280670382336, 28544953854119197618494456401446561340764672, 57089907708238395236988912802893122681529344, 114179815416476790473977825605786245363058688, 228359630832953580947955651211572490726117376, 456719261665907161895911302423144981452234752, 913438523331814323791822604846289962904469504, 1826877046663628647583645209692579925808939008, 3653754093327257295167290419385159961167878016, 7307508186654514590334580838770319323335756032, 14615016373309029180669161677540638646671512064, 29230032746618058361338323355081277293343024128, 58460065493236116722676646710162554586686048256, 116920130986472233445353293420325109173372096512, 233840261972944466890706586840650218346744193024, 467680523945888933781413173681300436693488386048, 935361047891777867562826347362600873386976772096, 1870722095783555735125652694725201746773953544192, 3741444191567111470251305389450403493547907088384, 7482888383134222940502610778900806987095814176768, 14965776766268445881005221557801613974191628353536, 29931553532536891762010443115603227948383256707072, 59863107065073783524020886231206454896766514014144, 119726214130147567048041772462412909793533028028288, 239452428260295134096083544924825819587066056456576, 478904856520590268192167089849651639174132112913152, 957809713041180536384334179699303278348264225826304, 1915619426082361072768668359398606556696528451652608, 3831238852164722145537336718797213113393056903305216, 7662477704329444291074673437594426226786113806610432, 1532495540865888858214934687518885245357222761322064, 3064991081731777716429869375037770490714455522644128, 6129982163463555432859738750075540981428911045248256, 12259964326927110865719477500151081962857822090496512, 24519928653854221731438955000302163925715644180992032, 49039857307708443462877910000604327851431288361984064, 98079714615416886925755820001208655702862576723968128, 196159429230833773851511640002417311405725153447936256, 392318858461667547703023280004834622811452866895872512, 784637716923335095406046560009669245622905733791745024, 15692754338466

Appendicitis Prevented Life Lengthened Health Maintained

Thousands Finding Wonderful
Benefit in a Simple Home
Remedy That Costs But a Quarter.

Doctors say if people keep their bowels in proper order, there would be no such disease as record as appendicitis. It is the result of neglect, and is therefore preventable.

If you have constipation, bad breath or headache you need medicine right away.

The moment you suspect your bowels are clogged you should take Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the smoothest regulator of them all. They move the bowels and cleanse the liver so smoothly you scarcely notice the effect. But you can get the action just the same. Taken at night you wake up next morning clear-headed, hungry, rested, energetic, feeling like a different man.

Why don't you spend a quarter to-day and try Dr. Hamilton's Pills? They work so easy, just as nature would, never grip or cause headache. First thing that takes effect is out of sorts, depressed, lacking in color and spirits.

Folk that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills are never sick, never in ache or pain—feel good all the time, because their system is clean, regulated and healthy. This you can easily prove yourself.

Filling His Own Shoes

—BY
HENRY C. ROWLAND

Copyrighted. Printed by special arrangement with Thos. Allen,
Toronto.

(Continued.)

In the urgency of his own immediate affairs, Rugles made no attempt to see Durand or the other men. It was a great surprise from another quarter he was in store for him. He had come into the hotel rather tired from an afternoon's shopping, and was leaning on his stick waiting for the lift when a quiet, low-pitched voice at his elbow said:

"How do you do, Mr. Rugles?"

Rugles started so violently that his stick walking stick slipped on the polished parquet, and his injured arm, being as yet unable to support the sudden strain thus thrown upon it, gave under the strain and he fell. An attendant sprang to his assistance, and as he struggled to his feet with a face full of shock, he saw the other man's twinkling eyes in the wounded ankle he looked into the violet eyes of Rugles, who was watching him with a curious, startled expression, surprised at the effect of her quiet gravity and a little vexed at his apparent awkwardness.

The blood rushed back into Rugles' face as he took the small glancing look which she gravely offered him.

"How do you do, Miss Downing?" he answered, in some confusion. "I did not know that you were in Paris."

"My aunt and I have just got here from London," she answered. "We are only over for a few days to do some shopping. And you, Mr. Rugles, have been since we last met."

"Oh—pretty well, I think," Rugles replied, a little vaguely. "I'm just back from Turkey."

"From Turkey?" she asked, slightly raising her eyebrows.

"Yes," Rugles answered. "I went out of the city after—after I saw you here, with a doctor in the Red Room—Lord Pembroke."

"Really?" Her eyes examined him with a sudden interest, and she asked you serve with the Red Cross?"

"Yes," Rugles answered. "That is, until I got wounded. I got shot in the ankle on the Tschakaldia hills."

Ruth glanced down instinctively, and as she saw the manner in which Rugles was supporting himself, her face softened.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" she said, and raised her eyes to his face. "I must hear all about it. Can't you come up for a few minutes? My aunt is resting, and we can have a little chat before tea time. Or have you come to call on somebody?"

"Oh, no," Rugles answered. "I'm stopping here."

Ruth did not show the surprise that this announcement gave her. She reacted quickly that some considerable change must have occurred in Rugles' affairs, to enable him to afford to stay at the Carlton. Then it occurred to her that he might possibly be in the service of some Ottawa official, as on her arrival at the hotel she had noticed a Turkish messenger in a red frock sitting beside the chauffeur of a waiting motor-car.

Ruth, however, was no such, and whether Rugles was in some form of naval service or not made her no slightest difference. He had interested her from the first, and she had been admiring him for his absolute naturalness and his generally clean and wholesome type of character, as he pressed her with those three cardinal qualities which put her at ease, and made her think the greatest appeal to a woman when she finds there is a man—kindness, constancy and courage.

Regardless of what anybody might choose to think, she repeated her invitation and they went up together to the lift and into the same little private lift in the suite that was reserved for members of the Downing family who found themselves in Paris.

"Sit right down and put your foot on this thing," said Ruth, having an anchor from his corner and putting an Ottoman in front of it. Rugles' eyes were fixed on the floor.

"Oh, you wrench your ankle when you come up?"

"Oh, yes," said Rugles. "I just went out under Mr. Pembroke's arm, and he added a little twist. I've got no coming, though. It was worth it."

"What was worth it?" asked Ruth, and dropped into a chair facing him.

"Why—everything that happened afterwards—and a whole lot that had happened before. We did some pretty good work out there. That is, Pembroke did it, and I helped."

"Who is Pembroke?" Ruth asked.

"You spoke of him downstairs as 'Lord Pembroke.' How did you get to know him?"

"Well, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

choice to think, she repeated her invitation and they went up together to the lift and into the same little private lift in the suite that was reserved for members of the Downing family who found themselves in Paris.

"Sit right down and put your foot on this thing," said Ruth, having an anchor from his corner and putting an Ottoman in front of it. Rugles' eyes were fixed on the floor.

"Oh, you wrench your ankle when you come up?"

"Oh, yes," said Rugles. "I just went out under Mr. Pembroke's arm, and he added a little twist. I've got no coming, though. It was worth it."

"What was worth it?" asked Ruth, and dropped into a chair facing him.

"Why—everything that happened afterwards—and a whole lot that had happened before. We did some pretty good work out there. That is, Pembroke did it, and I helped."

"Who is Pembroke?" Ruth asked.

"You spoke of him downstairs as 'Lord Pembroke.' How did you get to know him?"

"Well, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

City Markets and The Cost of Living

Cuts Down Cost of Handling and Eliminates Middlemen.

The operation of city produce markets is regarded as having a close bearing on the cost of living in the towns and cities. With a view of bringing out the best systems of conducting city markets The Agricultural Society of Canada, published by the department of agriculture at Ottawa, has brought together, in the December number, the systems by which markets are handled in eighteen of the larger cities in Canada. The statements provided by city mayors, city clerks and superintendents of markets show clearly that there does not exist in Canada any uniform system of city market administration. Each city has its own special rules and regulations. In some instances the market is subject to a sort of public ownership by the city, which has the privilege to collect tolls or fees from those who bring produce to the market. In other cases, as in Regina, we find a women's organization exercising by conducting the city market on a business basis, while many public markets are directly managed by a committee appointed by the city council. The Hamilton board of trade has established a wholesome relationship between urban and rural people by creating a farmers' section of the board. The friendly co-operation and exchange of views between the two sections result in a better understanding of conditions, consequently the Hamilton market is highly esteemed by growers and buyers. It serves the interest of both. Several features adopted by various market administrations are giving excellent results. For example, the system adopted at Port Arthur for the selling of consignments of produce by the market manager on a commission basis. Besides securing to the producer a fairer price for his goods, the market manager supplies of food at a cost, usually below the prices charged in the stores, and thus the consumer is benefited. The market manager also secures to the producer considerably higher prices than if the produce were compelled to pass through several hands each taking their necessary toll.

"Oh, yes," said Rugles. "I just went out under Mr. Pembroke's arm, and he added a little twist. I've got no coming, though. It was worth it."

"What was worth it?" asked Ruth, and dropped into a chair facing him.

"Why—everything that happened afterwards—and a whole lot that had happened before. We did some pretty good work out there. That is, Pembroke did it, and I helped."

"Who is Pembroke?" Ruth asked.

"You spoke of him downstairs as 'Lord Pembroke.' How did you get to know him?"

"Well, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to go, and just that. I had no more idea of starting anything than I would have had getting into the office in the office of this hotel."

"How much of the company for that?"

"Why, he was like this," said Rugles; "after I left you that day, I went home and found a letter from the European general manager saying that the company had decided to give me a job. I was to be sent to another man—a fellow named Lorens, who had been in the shoe business in Vienna and knew the place. Maybe he was a better man than I was, but I felt that I had to go. I had to go, because I felt that the company had as good as promised it to me."

"I don't blame you," said Ruth, who, by the way, had been sitting on the sofa, had lifted the affair quite to her own satisfaction. "I'm sure you must about it as Rugles himself. But I wanted to hear his version and, dropping her chin to her hand, she said her thoughtful supplies even on his face, she was not to be deceived."

"Coming just as it did," said Rugles, "made me sick, clear through. You see, it got me into a bad light with people who thought that I was a little bit of a fellow, and I was in real position with the company. So I made up my mind to quit the company, and then, before I left, I wanted to tell that lying Durand, the manager of the shoe business, that I thought of him, and I wanted to tell Lorens, too. Both of them, in Vienna, I intended to go to the office of mine, and all the while I was waiting for the lift, I was to do me out of the job. So I went into the store and told them that I intended to

"FOR SERVICE"

TRY THE HOME GRAIN CO.

Choice Feed Oats.

Lethbridge Best Chinook Lump and Stove Coal.

High Power Gasoline, New Stock Kerosene

Also Complete Lines of Automobile, Tractor and Threshers Oils and Greases.

"For Genuine Service"

See R. J. PRINGLE

HOME GRAIN CO.

BOW ISLAND.

W O LYONS

THE "IDEAL" REPAIR STORE

Boots and Shoes Repaired with best Materials at Moderate Prices

Agent for Medicine Hat Steam Laundry, Clothes Cleaned Dyed and Pressed. Rugs and Carpets Cleaned.

BURDETT FEED STORE

Crushed Oats $58.00 a Ton.

Plenty of HAY on hand all prices.

All Kinds of Flour 98 lb. sack.....$6.50

Government Orders Accepted

S. W. FLETCHER, MANAGER.BATEMAN BROS.

Will Give 5 per cent Discount

ON ALL GROCERIES

(Excepting Flour, Sugar and Potatoes)

Until February 1st. 1920.

Highest Prices Given for Butter and Eggs.

Located in the Oliver Harness Store.

BOW ISLAND, ALBERTA.

Home Sweet Home.

All our thoughts turn lovingly towards Home, think what a blow it would be to you, if Your Home was ever Burnt Down, a Sound Investment is to protect your Home by Insuring against Fire with

ROBERT H. ROBERTSON, BOW ISLANDBURDETT*A FINE SERVICE

The Rev. Theo. Danielson of Bow Island preached in the Methodist Church here last Sunday before a large congregation, who were much impressed and delighted with the Rev. gentleman's forceful and appealing explanation of "True Religion and God's Holy Word" and led many to hope, that they likewise might with God's help, also be "Cheerful and yet Earnest Christians." Mr. Danielson's illustrations were at all times extremely good and often very quaint, so that the people were intensely moved and kept in a state of rapt attention.

In our opinion the Rev. Theo. Danielson is a sincere Christian and a Light that will adorn any Church

We most sincerely hope that the Rev. Mr. Danielson will again soon take our services here in Burdett all the Congregation extend a hearty invite to him to come again and lead them

Purple Springs

From our own Correspondent.

It is reported that Mrs. W. Hudson former post mistress is taking over the post office as post mistress again, very soon

Mr. L. Hall and a few other farmers are giving a dance next Friday in the school house

Mr. E. Long is anticipating buying a car

Mr. E. Long will be visiting Lethbridge on the 26th. and will attend the school for mechanics for one month.

Follow The Crowd To THE BURDETT MERCANTILE STORE

Each merchant quotes prices
And sings his old chant
He smiles very pleasantly
And hands out the bounty.

Some argue in reason,
Others get in the fat;
But he who makes progress
Never talks through his hat

His store is a model
His stock, neat and clean,
His attention is on the business,
And he thinks with his bean.

He thinks of your interest,
As well as his own;
He appreciates your trade,
And he makes the fact known

For value and service,
You'll always do best
By trading with us
For we lead all the rest

Come in and get Our Every Day,
Special Prices,

Burdett Mercantile Co.A. H. Rygg Proprietor,

If you have any
Fat Hogs
Fat Cattle

Or Hides to sell
see me before selling

You can still buy your Fresh Meats at Our Market at the Old Price, there has been no advance

And when you buy your fresh or cured meats, fresh or cured fish from this market you are getting the very best quality at the lowest possible price.

Have you tried Our Home Made Sausage?
Fresh Bread Daily

PHONE No. 9.

THE BURDETT CASH MEAT MARKET.GEORGE LOMAS, PROPRIETOR.*GLOBE STORES

BOW ISLAND.

WINNIFRED

SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY

Sunlight Soap (pkg. 4 cakes) each ..	30	Sour Mix Pickles Quart Sealer.....	45
Codfish per can.....	25	Tomatoes per can.....	20
Sliced Smoked Beef per can.....	25	June Peas per can.....	20
Gold Seal brand Condensed Milk a can ..	20	Sopade small size per pkg.....	15
Rice per lb.....	15	Pure Plum Jam 4lb can.....	95
		Bulk Tea (good quality) per lb.....	50

FOR STERLING VALUES AND RELIABLE GOODS

TRADE AT THE

GLOBE STORESChuck Chuen Grocery Store

Opposite the Ladie's Rest Room.

Our Best Flour 100lb Sack.....	$6.50	Blue Ribbon Baking Powder 3lb tin.....	70
Blue Ribbon Coffee 3lb. pkg.....	1.50	" " " " 5lb ".....	1.15
Potato Flour 1lb. pkg.....	20	Glacier Brand Salmon 1lb. tin 2 for.....	45
Del Monte brand Red Pimientos tin.....	20	Mixed Vegetables 2 1/2 lb tin 2 for.....	45
Hominy per tin.....	25	Macaroni 5lb. box.....	75
Pure Maple Syrup per qrt. bottle.....	1.00	King Beach Raspberry & Red Currant Jam 4lb.....	1.00

Lettuce, Radishes, Green Onions, Parsley
Celery, and all kinds of fresh Vegetables

All Customers spending over $2.00 with us, will be given a 25ct. package of Cleanser for Silverware.

Your Subscription is it due?We will be glad to receive it*BURDETT

From our own correspondent

Have you any News Items, you would like to have printed in the Review? Anyone wishing to put any News Items in the Review just post them to the Editor

Review Office
Bow Island

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian Church, Moose Jaw on January 10th. when Iva, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Anderson of Burdett was united in holy bonds of matrimony to J.W. Pulfer C.E.F. of Moose Jaw; the bride looked charming dressed in her wedding gown of blue silk as she entered the church on the arm of her father to the tune of Lohengrin's wedding march; after the ceremony a beautiful wedding supper was served at the home of Mr. R.L. Anderson

The happy couple left on the night train for Toronto, New York, Baltimore and the southern states for their honeymoon, after which they will take up their residence in Moose Jaw where Mr. Pulfer has large commercial interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Pulfer will be home in Moose Jaw after March 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Anderson returned last Thursday from Moose Jaw whither they had been to attend their daughter's wedding

Voting took place on Monday last for one new councillor and R.H. Ostrum was elected over A. Abbot by 22-7.

At a meeting of ratepayers of the Burdett Consolidated School on Sat. 17th the following were elected by acclamation J.F. Hamilton, Thomas Burns and Charles Kurlin, it was decided to pay the new board as follows $100.00 for the chairman and $50.00 each to the other members of the board per year as a recompense for their untiring efforts in attending to the School affairs

Chas. Hendershot has gone to Gull Lake on a hunting trip

Del. Burnham and H. Shawson are now running the town water wagon

Clarence Brunsdale sold his quarter section west of town to Mrs. Clark for $30.00 per acre cash

Ross Strong was figuring on taking a trip to California on the winnings from his election bets, since the election he has changed his mind

During these times when the High Cost of Living hits our pocket book so hard it is gratifying to hear that the price of Fresh Meat is not advancing, at least not at the Burdett Meat Market.

METHODIST CHURCH

Mrs. V. M. Gilbert will take charge of the services at the Methodist Church, next Sunday

Sunday School 2 p.m.
Service 7:30 p.m. every Sunday

Don't fail to come
A hearty welcome to all